REMINDER: UPDATING OF NFPA STANDARDS

Users of NFPA codes, standards, recommended practices, and guides (“NFPA Standards”) should be aware that NFPA Standards may be amended from time to time through the issuance of Tentative Interim Amendments or corrected by Errata. An official NFPA Standard at any point in time consists of the current edition of the document together with any Tentative Interim Amendment and any Errata then in effect.

In order to determine whether an NFPA Standard has been amended through the issuance of Tentative Interim Amendments or corrected by Errata, visit the Document Information Pages on NFPA’s website. The Document Information Pages provide up-to-date, document specific information including any issued Tentative Interim Amendments and Errata.

To access the Document Information Page for a specific NFPA Standard, go to <http://www.nfpa.org/docinfo> to choose from the list of NFPA Standards or use the search feature on the right to select the NFPA Standard number (e.g., NFPA 101). The Document Information page includes postings of all existing Tentative Interim Amendments and Errata. It also includes the option to register for an “Alert” feature to receive an automatic email notification when new updates and other information are posted regarding the document.

Users of NFPA codes, standards, recommended practices, and guides (“NFPA Standards”) should be aware that these documents may be superseded at any time by the issuance of new editions or may be amended from time to time through the issuance of Tentative Interim Amendments or corrected by Errata. An official NFPA Standard at any point in time consists of the current edition of the document together with any Tentative Interim Amendments and any Errata then in effect. In order to determine whether a given document is the current edition and whether it has been amended through the issuance of Tentative Interim Amendments or corrected through the issuance of Errata, consult appropriate NFPA publications such as the National Fire Codes® Subscription Service, visit the NFPA website at www.nfpa.org, or contact the NFPA at the address listed below.

Interpretations of NFPA Standards

A statement, written or oral, that is not processed in accordance with Section 6 of the Regulations Governing the Development of NFPA Standards shall not be considered the official position of NFPA or any of its Committees and shall not be considered to be, nor be relied upon as, a Formal Interpretation.

Patents

The NFPA does not take any position with respect to the validity of any patent rights referenced in, related to, or asserted in connection with an NFPA Standard. The users of NFPA Standards bear the sole responsibility for determining the validity of any such patent rights, as well as the risk of infringement of such rights, and the NFPA disclaims liability for the infringement of any patent resulting from the use of or reliance on NFPA Standards.

NFPA adheres to the policy of the American National Standards Institute (ANSI) regarding the inclusion of patents in American National Standards (“the ANSI Patent Policy”), and hereby gives the following notice pursuant to that policy:

NOTICE: The user’s attention is called to the possibility that compliance with an NFPA Standard may require use of an invention covered by patent rights. NFPA takes no position as to the validity of any such patent rights or as to whether such patent rights constitute or include essential patent claims under the ANSI Patent Policy. If, in connection with the ANSI Patent Policy, a patent holder has filed a statement of willingness to grant licenses under these rights on reasonable and nondiscriminatory terms and conditions to applicants desiring to obtain such a license, copies of such filed statements can be obtained, on request, from NFPA. For further information, contact the NFPA at the address listed below.

Law and Regulations

Users of NFPA Standards should consult applicable federal, state, and local laws and regulations. NFPA does not, by the publication of its codes, standards, recommended practices, and guides, intend to urge action that is not in compliance with applicable laws, and these documents may not be construed as doing so.

Copyrights

NFPA Standards are copyrighted. They are made available for a wide variety of both public and private uses. These include both use, by reference, in laws and regulations, and use in private self-regulation, standardization, and the promotion of safe practices and methods. By making these documents available for use and adoption by public authorities and private users, the NFPA does not waive any rights in copyright to these documents.

Use of NFPA Standards for regulatory purposes should be accomplished through adoption by reference. The term “adoption by reference” means the citing of title, edition, and publishing information only. Any deletions, additions, and changes desired by the adopting authority should be noted separately in the adopting instrument. In order to assist NFPA in following the uses made of its documents, adopting authorities are requested to notify the NFPA (Attention: Secretary, Standards Council) in writing of such use. ## NFPA®232

Standard for the Protection of Records

2017 Edition

This edition of NFPA 232, Standard for the Protection of Records, was prepared by the Technical Committee on Record Protection. It was issued by the Standards Council on May 13, 2016, with an effective date of June 2, 2016, and supersedes all previous editions.

This edition of NFPA 232 was approved as an American National Standard on June 2, 2016.

Origin and Development of NFPA 232

The destructive fire in the general offices of the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy Railway in Chicago on March 25, 1922, was clear proof that valuable and often irreplaceable business records, unless properly protected, can be destroyed even in so-called “fire-resistive” buildings. Following that destructive fire, the Committee on Record Protection was organized. Reports were submitted annually from 1923 through 1936 and again in 1939. In 1947, a standard was developed from the officially adopted committee reports of 1942 to 1946. In 1960, the standard underwent major editorial revision and was revised again in 1963, when the title was changed from Protection of Records to Standard for the Protection of Records, 1967, and 1970. In 1975, the standard was reconfirmed. The 1980 edition reformatted the standard to conform to the NFPA Manual of Style and revised the detail specifications to performance-oriented requirements. The 1986 edition was a reconfirmation of the 1980 edition.

Changes to the 1991 edition included a reclassification of certain types of records. New provisions were added for the construction, arrangement, and protection of file rooms. These changes further increased the chance that vital documents would be spared during most fire events.

The 1995 edition incorporated several editorial changes and the inclusion of a retroactivity clause and further addressed the protection requirements for non-paper records media.

The 2000 edition incorporated NFPA 232A; where appropriate, the information that had been contained in NFPA 232A was included as enforceable language. The documents were combined because both contained similar information. Requirements for housekeeping and emergency planning were included to provide guidance during emergency conditions and recovery operations.

In addition to being reformatted in accordance with the Manual of Style for NFPA Technical Committee Documents, the 2007 edition of NFPA 232 was reorganized to clearly provide requirements for each storage environment and to consolidate general requirements. Considerable effort was made to provide requirements for compartmented records centers.

In the 2012 edition, unenforceable language was removed and several editorial changes were incorporated. The term authorized was defined and substituted for the term approved throughout the document. Protection against exposure fire was collaborated among all chapters and clarified in Chapter 4. Chapter 7 was revised in its entirety, clarifying archive protection.

Guidance regarding storage of electronic media has been added to the 2017 edition, including a clear reference to NFPA 75, Standard for the Fire Protection of Information Technology Equipment. Record definitions have been organized into subcategories addressing record medium, record type, and record status. The term fire resistance has been replaced with fire resistance rating throughout the document.
